

About Love

Love is an emotion that keeps people bonded and committed to one another. Everywhere in this you can find love. From nature to its children's love can be found and expressed in many ways. Parents to their children, from family to their young once. Now a days this so-called young generation has changed the actual meaning of the word. With context to Hindu mythology love is all about providing happiness to other by keeping owns expectation low. If you want other to love you, you must also accept the consequences.