

Love

Love is divine. In this world there is only one feeling i.e., love which can satisfy a human heart. Not only human but animals, plants, every living thing need love and care to grow healthier. Love can fill someone with positivity. Love is the only feeling which is holding and making relationships strong. Relation among parents and children i.e., Family, relation among relatives, relation among friends, relation between teacher and student, relation between partners, relation with animals, relation with plants and all kind of relation with environment. To describe love, one cannot have enough time. It can be felt and it gives amazing feeling to the one in love with someone or something. Love should be felt, lived and enjoyed. Main focus should be on preserving the love through action not only by words. Love should be lived and one should live for their responsibilities i.e., love is responsibility.
